Honors for Lab heroes

LIVERMORE — Three Lawrence Livermore Laboratory electronics technicians were honored last week for their quick action in saving the life of a fellow worker after he was knocked unconscious by a powerful electric shock.

Lab Director Dr. Roger E. Batzel presented plaques to the three men and praised them for quickly and efficiently carrying out emergency procedures, including shutting off power, calling the fire department and starting resuscitation.

On Nov. 2, Gary Willett of 5241 Norma Way touched a live power supply while working in building 435. Willett had stopped breathing and his heart was not beating when the three workmen reached him.

David Jansson of 851 Las Flores turned the high voltage off. Donald Stiles of 1355 El Dorado Drive ran to the scene and began applying mouth - to - mouth resuscitation with Jansson's assistance while Frank Upper of 786 Mariposa Ave. called the Lab's rescue team.

Still with no heartbeat, Willett was rushed to the Lab's medical department and was given electric shock. His heart again began functioning.

Willett spent three days in the hospital and returned to work Nov. 15.

"You did everything just right," Batzel said of Jansson, Stiles and Upper. "Your actions were essential in the first stages of the process of saving Gary's life."

New HSC appointed by council

PLEASANTON — The city council created the charter membership of the Human Services Commission last night.

Phil Cooper, Phyllis Bullock, Sharon Kosch, Barbara Hempill and Diana Leathers were appointed to the citizens' seats on the panel.

Ex-officio members nominated by their commissions and confirmed by the city council last night are planning commissioner David Shepherd, housing authority commissioner Christine Pearson and park and recreation commissioner Kathy O'Brien.

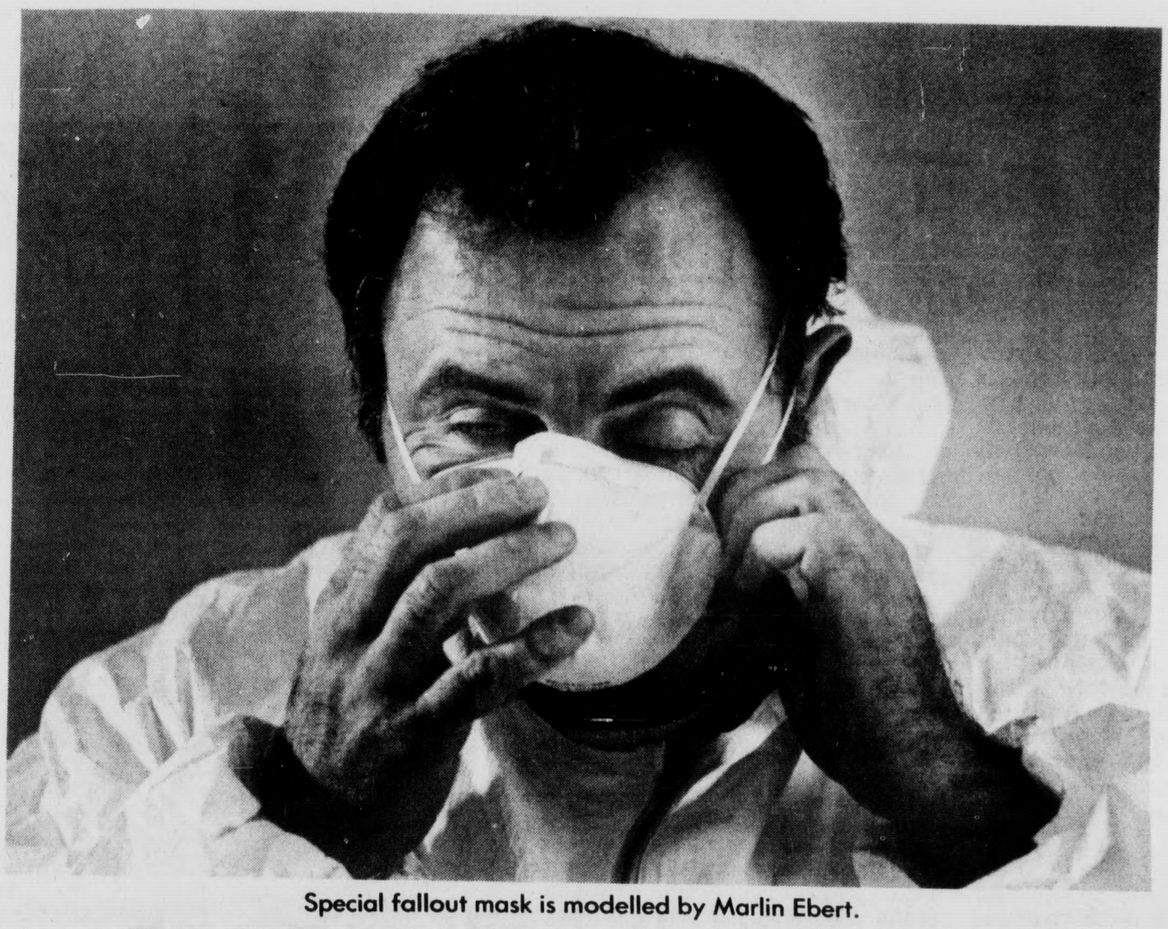

The commission has been charged with helping the city carry out the social elements of the general plan. This will involve assessing the social needs of the community and determining whether or not local and other agencies are meeting all the needs.

The new commission succeeds the community concerns committee, which helped draft the social elenent of the general plan. The committee had little power, according to its members, and the new commission apparently will have more influence in city government.

On another item, the council approved removal of a Monterey Pine heritage tree at 530 E. Angela St. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Silva asked removal of the tree for access to their rear yard so they can park recreational vehicles there. The planning staff recommended approval of the request.

Councilmembers unanimously approved a general plan amendment for an industrial park at the edge of the Mission Park residential neighborhood.

Vice-mayor Joyce LeClaire asked for a staff report in 60 days on the kinds of uses permitted in an industrial park which might pose a nuisance to residential areas so that the council might change the ordinance and keep such uses out of the Mission Park area.

Fallout fashions unveiled

LIVERMORE — A new business has made a timely appearance with this week's news of a Chinese atomic fallout cloud floating over the United States.

Radiation Protection Corporation — a two person office on First Street — is selling a package designed to give people "Personal anticontamination" in case of a nuclear accident, fallout from above - ground testing and other nuclear disasters.

The system is called the Nucle Clean kit, and was wrapped up by entrepreneur Marlin J. Ebert and his assistant Debbie Castell.

Inside the kit, a user will find everything from towels, brushes and detergent sponges to special masks, gloves, boots and coveralls.

The "domestic" kit sells for $16.50 plus tax, but Ebert is planning to put together a kit he hopes to sell to the U. S. Army. He is now mapping out a sales strategy and will soon send a representative to Washington, D.C., to talk with military officials.

He thinks it is only logical for the armed forces of this country to purchase his kit.

"The Russian soldier spends three weeks of his basic training to learn this," said Ebert.

He took the plunge in August because he felt "There is a demand, a market for this."

The last six years he was a senior marketing and radioisotope applications specialist for General Electric's nuclear energy division.

Before that he was a supervisor in ARCO's radiation process development.

A part - time faculty member at Chabot College, he has taught marketing, salesmanship and industrial management the last two years.

Ebert, 37, tells people he hopes they never have to use on the Nucle Clean kits, but does warn that it could become necessary for people to control contamination from released radioactive debris.

"I'm not in favor of bombs," said Ebert, "but people and countries do have them."

He makes a point of telling people he is definitely not against nuclear power. In fact, he told The Times, he worked against last year's Nuclear Safeguards Initiative — Proposition 15 (1975).

He recalls the flurry of fallout shelters that were constructed several years ago and says his product is a more sensible approach which approaches the financial ability of the average person.

What his special fallout fighter does is give the user a special protective covering which has much tinier "pores" than virtually all other types of clothing.

This is supposed to restrict the ability of tiny particles of radioactive dust or contaminants from coming into contact with the clothing or body.

The special cleansing solutions and accouterments allow the user to scrub and wash off the contaminants in case of exposure.

A nicely illustrated and neat instruction book tells when to use the kit, how to use the components and rules on avoiding further contamination. For the uneducated, it gives a brief explanation about nuclear power.

His book gives four basic rules about radiation contamination:

— Don't eat it.
— Don't breathe it.
— Don't let it get in your body.
— Put distance or mass between you and it as fast as possible.

Closer look at gravel trucking

Given assurance that traffic generated within that industrial tract would "all flow north on El Charro Road to I - 580," the Livermore - Pleasanton Sand and Gravel Committee recommended that Alameda County Planning Commission approve plans for a 15 - acre parcel within Rhodes and Jamieson's gravel holdings.

A firm that specializes in the fabrication of concrete pipes has asked county permission to locate within the Rhodes - Jamieson holdings, north of Stanley and east of Isabel Avenue.

The Gravel Study Committee, an advisory panel made up of representatives of the four major extractors along with city and county staff people, also announced formation of a task force that "will inventory all of the plans and proposals on truck routes" serving that 3000 - acre gravel area. The task force is expected to report back to the full Study Committee on that inventory, and from there a recommendation might emerge that looks to development of a truck route.

Pleasanton and Livermore have been pressing for some time to gain county involvement in a public road linking Stanley Boulevard to I - 580.

The gravel industry recently completed a mammoth reclamation report covering all 3000 acres between Vineyard the Arroyo del Valle and I - 580. The Study Committee voted to allow "three more weeks for input" on that draft report and then it will be sent to the printers prior to distribution to all concerned local, county and state agencies.

Citizen planning committee proposed

PLEASANTON — So far it is still in the formative stages, but the planning department is mapping out guidelines for appointment of a citizens committee on the local growth management plan.

Planning Director Robert Harris told a joint meeting of the city council and planning commission last week that the membership might be comprised of two city council members, one or two planning commissioners, a housing authority representative, and perhaps nine or 11 citizens. The plan is not firm yet and a final recommendation has yet to be made to the city council.

The committee would make recommendations to the city council "on the form and content of the growth management program," said Harris. The committee would explore the program "in great detail," though not quite in the detail which the staff has accomplished in preparing various documents for review by the committee and city council, said Harris.

At the meeting last week, council members and commissioners explored some questions related to the growth management plan, including the subject of where development could or should occur.

Harris suggested that if an area of the city needs a school, street or park, a developer would get a certain number of points for providing those amenities.

Commissioner Bill Jamieson wondered whether or not the city legally could tell a south side developer "no" because the city wants the north side built out, for example.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig said there is little legal precedent on the topic, but he thought probably it would be legal, depending on the rules of the plan established by the city.

In Petaluma the city wanted 250 units per year built on each side of the freeway and it used a point system to encourage development of the desired areas, said Scheidig.

Councilman Ken Mercer wanted to know if a builder could develop 300 acres in one area and give the city money for a road in another area. Scheidig replied that development should not be a "bidding war." There should be "a logical, rational plan. Can he build on the 300 acres? What will it cost the city in the long run?"

BILL JAMIESON
Legal question

Councilman William Herlihy observed that in Hawaii the state has permitted developers to build in outlying areas, but they have to put in highways leading from urban areas to their developments. Scheidig said that was what the famous growth control case in Ramapo, N.Y. was all about. The developers could build at the periphery of the general plan, but they had to put in all the necessary public improvements to connect to the previously developed areas, he said.

Tell Cranston about taxes, red tape

PLEASANTON — Property tax reform and federal red tape for the small business proprietor headed the list of concerns which Senator Alan Cranston's aide heard here yesterday.

The aide, Jerry Yoachum of the senator's San Francisco office, is conducting two public meetings a day until January throughout Northern California to learn what priorities people expect from the next Congress. A Cranston aide from the Los Angeles office is doing the same thing in Southern California.

Cranston wants the information because he expects to be the Democratic Party whip in the next Congress. In that role he will shepherd legislation for the Carter administration through Congress so he needs to know what bills the people want passed, said Yoachum.

Another reason for the grass roots sampling is Carter's loss of California to Ford in the election. "We want to pay close attention to what people are thinking in California," said Yoachum.

In general the economy was the major concern, both yesterday in Pleasanton and in 10 prior meetings around the Bay Area. In the urban areas, unemployment was the number one economic concern, but in the valley tax reform, both at the local and federal levels, was the major priority.

"Here in Pleasanton the concern has been about the size of government and government spending," said Yoachum. "Government regulation of the small businessman was also a popular topic. It's hard for small business to deal with the regulations. It's easier for big businesses; they have staffs to do it. Cranston will make tax reform a high priority," said Yoachum.

Cranston's view on government spending is that there should be cuts where it has been wasteful, especially in defense spending. Closing the tax loopholes for the wealthy and corporations also is a high priority item so that the middle income group can have it easier at tax time, said Yoachum.

JERRY YOACHUM

Ten people talked to Yoachum between 10 a.m. and noon yesterday and at least four more were waiting after a reporter interviewed Yoachum.

Former city planning commissioner and local businessman Bud Plato told The Time he was happy to have a chance to pass his concerns on to Cranston and Carter. "We have to bring government back to the people," Plato told The Times. "If Carter can do programs the people want, he won't have to worry about being re - elected four years from now. Too many politicians concentrate on four years from now and don't pass programs for the people."

Man in serious condition after multiple stabbing

LIVERMORE — A 25-year-old Livermore man remains in serious but guarded condition in Valley Memorial Hospital after he was stabbed at least eight times during a fight, police reported.

Danny Leonard Heuton, 25, of 1882 East Railroad Ave. in Livermore, is recuperating from stab wounds which collapsed one lung and may have damaged a kidney, a hospital spokesman said.

According to reports, Houten was preparing to get into his car at First and South J streets about 2:30 yesterday morning when he spotted Dale Jerold McKay, an ex-boyfriend of Heuton's girl.

After words were exchanged a struggle began and the two men wrestled to the ground. Police said Heuton had McKay pinned to the ground and was allegedly beating him when McKay took out a pocket knife and stabbed Heuton in the back.

Even after stabbing him eight times, McKay had to wrestle with Heuton to get him off. McKay then got in his car and drove until he spotted a passing police car, flagged it down and went back to the scene. Heuton had already been taken to the hospital when police arrived.

McKay sustained minor injuries as a result of the struggle.

An investigation into the incident is continuing. No arrests were made.

Suspect named as supplier in pipe bomb case

LIVERMORE — The fire department has taken up an investigation which pinpoints the source for a one-pound sack of gunpowder a 14-year-old boy used to make 16 pipe bombs last week.

Police said an 18-year-old woman used an altered birth certificate to get a state - issued identification card showing her age as 22. She then bought the gunpowder at Arnew's Sport Shop on North L Street using the identification card.

The woman allegedly sold the gunpowder to the youth. He was arrested Friday after a mailbox on North M Street was destroyed the day before in an explosion.

The youth led police to his home where 16 pipe bombs were recovered. He was booked on several counts of possession and detonation of bombs, police said.

No charges against the woman were made pending final recommendations of the fire department.

Komandorski grant

Free recreation for kids

PLEASANTON — Associated Community Action Programs is funding a special recreation program for children at Komandorski Village public housing on Dougherty Road.

More than $8,000 is tabbed for the program which is being conducted through the city's Department of Human Resources. Approximately $3,000 will provide bus rides for the youths to city facilities where they will be taking various recreation classes ranging from dance and tennis to crafts. Most of the funds go for instructors' fees; the usual users' fees for the programs are waived for the youths because of the ACAP subsidy.

Young people served by the program are in the six to 18 year old range. So far the most popular class has been judo with 40 participants enrolled in the class and another 40 watching from the sidelines, eager for the next class to start so they can take instruction.

Dolores Bengtson of the Human Resources Department organized the program and is supervising it. Eileen Morley and Nancy Montgomery of the staff are also working on the program and visit the Komandorski Village Friday nights for a special program which includes crafts activities and movies.

Objective of the program is eight months of recreational skill enhancement for 80 separate eligible youths. It is the first time ACAP has funded an ongoing recreation program at Komandorski Village. Sixty - six youngsters so far have signed up for a variety of classes and 45 are in the Friday night recreation program. Signups to date indicate the department will reach the goal of 80 youngsters, said Director of Human Resources Bob Caporusso.

Park committee shaves funds

PLEASANTON — Loma Alta Playground Action Committee managed to shave $1,200 off the estimated subsidy the city will grant to complete the tot lot at Loma Alta Park.

The city council originally appropriated $1,700 for the tot lot improvements. LAPAC raised nearly $5,000 through bake sales, flea markets and other fundraisers and now needs only $500 of city money to complete the project. The park and recreation commission allocated the money to LAPAC last week.

The commission also passed a resolution 4-0 (Commissioner Chuck Gielow absent) regarding cancellation of city facilities during inclement weather.

The policy applies to groups which co - sponsor recreation programs with the city. Director of Human Resources Bob Caporusso or Park Superintendent Phil Hallock will get in touch with the president of an organization or his or her designated representative if they feel the facilities are not playable, says the policy.

A meeting will be set up to review the field situation, if necessary, with the organization representative and a city represenatative attending. The city official will have the final authority to cancel the use of any facility.

Hike tolls to fund transit

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — Fares and Bay Bridge tolls should be increased to fund public transit through 1981.

Those recommendations and other, which directly affect the pocketbooks of area residents, today were included in a Metropolitan Transportation Commission committee report on long-range transit financing.

The report suggests that Bay Area Rapid Transit should obtain 40 per cent of its revenues from fares. That would mean a fare increase for BART riders.

AC Transit, the report said, should get 35 per cent of the money it received from fares, as should the San Francisco Municipal Railway.

Further, tolls on the Bay Bridge should be hiked to $1, with the extra money being split among transit agencies.

That would have the double-edged effect of raising more money and cutting down the number of people who drive to San Francisco.

As another provision, the MTC transit finance committee called for permanent extension of the half-cent transit sales tax for BART.

The committee recommended that voters be given the option of instituting such a tax in Solano, Napa, Marin and Sonoma counties.

Bay Area transit operators should resolve the "lingering question" of whether a transit association for the region should be formed.

The study predicts the region's three major tansit operators will have a total deficit of $114.9 million by 1980. BART would account for $65.6 million of that.

The deficit next year is estimated at $12.2 million.

Those deficits would be alleviated if the financing plan were put into action, the committee said.

The plan needs approval from the full MTC before proposals can be suggested to the state Legislature for action.

Danville complex approved

DANVILLE — Over protests, members of the San Ramon Valley Community Planning Committee Thursday night approved partial plans for a restaurant, motel and gas station complex on Sycamore Valley Road.

The committee okayed plans for the motel and restaurant, but rejected the gas station on the basis of the increased traffic it would generate.

More than 100 people crammed Thursday night's meeting to protest plans for the complex at the intersection of Sycamore and Camino Ramon. St. Louis Investors, the development group proposing the project, had sought permission for a 60-unit motel, a 149-seat 24-hour restaurant and the gas station.

In making their decision, board members were told that the complex would generate another 1,750 daily trips. That intersection now handles about 7,000 trips a day. County figures showed that more than half of the extra trips would be generated by the gas station.

The committee voted 4-1 in favor.

The proposals now go to the county planning commission Nov. 30 for review, and if approved, will be sent to the county board of supervisors.

Big crowd at final flu clinic

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — Almost 5,000 people received flu shots at Kaiser Hospital on Sunday, making the last mass clinic scheduled in the county the biggest ever held.

Anne Ageson, flu clinic coordinator, said some 65,000 people have now received shots against the swine flu in the county. It had been hoped that 100,000 county residents would seek the shots.

Ageson said special arrangements have been made for Alamo residents to receive shots on this Tuesday from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the Alamo Medical Group at 1505 Alphonsus Way. This clinic will also be repeated on Nov. 30 from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.

Flu shots will be available at county buildings and at regular immunization clinics starting in December.

There will be no free shots after Dec. 22. For more information call 372-2969.

Zucchini Lady does it again!

Maxine Plastino of Livermore, better known throughout the Valley as "The Zucchini Lady," volunteers 1400 alternatives to avoid family conflict when it comes to naming the new arrival in the household.

Mrs. Plastino whose talents and ability are as prolific as her zucchini has now written a book "Name Time for Your Baby." The book, which has a copyright of May, 1976 and illustrated by 11 year old Ted Newell contains names from "A" to "Z" with most of them being unique and different.

"I've grown weary of family conflicts as to which person and whose side of the family a new baby should be named," stated the Zucchini lady. A large research, contacting individuals and putting names together are all a part of her "Name Time" book.

The Zucchini Lady's recipe book, "Zucchini Time," now in its third printing, offers 229 varied dishes for the use of the summer squash. New recipes with the green plant are always being created by the lover of the vegetable which she labels, "king of the garden."

The popular book has now gone international with copies in five countries, Sweden, Alaska, Thati, Novascotia and Canada! Not only is the book available, but visitors to Livermore also took "seeds" from the "king" to their country to grow the vegetable.

For instance, the vegetable was unknown in Sweden, however two years ago seeds made the trip to that country and needless to say, "seeds and zucchini are now plentiful in Sweden!"

Mrs. Plastino never ceases to have fun with her new innovation. She has appeared at numerous clubs giving demonstrations and at the Alameda County Fair where crowds of people gathered around her to gain new knowledge of recipes for zucchini while having a chance of winning door prizes and sharing in her "fun" approach to new ideas in cooking.

She has now created the theme, "What Fun Being One" in celebrating her first year as being known as the "Zucchini Lady."

Anyone who has ever planted this summer squash experiences the problem of how to use it as fast as it grows. This is why Mrs. Plastino's book has become so popular as it is a help to many in making inexpensive, healthy, tastful dishes.

Further information on her new "Name Time for Your Baby" and "Zucchini Time" may be had by calling the energetic lady at 447-7147.

Historic Vending

Vending machines are not new. As early as 215 B.C., worshipers in temples could get holy water by dropping in five drachmas. In 1615, coin-operated tobacco boxes appeared in English pubs. After a coin was inserted, the lid opened and the patron helped himself to a pipeful of tobacco.

THE THANKSGIVING TRAMP

I had just finished the blue tail feathers on my turkey picture and was reaching for the red crayon to do the wattles, when there was a knock at the backdoor. Mother stopped snapping the green snap beans at the sink, wiped her hands and opened the door. We were both surprised to see a man standing there with a pack on his back.

He didn't say anything, so Mother said, "Is there something I can help you with?"

"Well, I could do with some coffee, Ma'am. I ain't had any coffee for quite some time." The man removed his floppy gray hat, twisted it in his hands nervously keeping his eyes down.

Mother immediately turned to the cupboard and got a can of coffee down and filled a quart sized canning jar with ground coffee from it. She handed it to the man who looked embarrassed and miserable. But Mother smiled kindly and asked him if there might be something more she could get for him. She seemed to feel honored to serve him.

"Some sugar, Ma'am?" The question was apologetic.

Mother turned to the drawer where we kept the sugar and filled another quart sized canning jar with the white crystals and put waxed paper over the top of the jar before screwing the lid on. She held it out to the red-faced man who fumbled around getting it into his pack which he had set down on the back porch.

Many tramps went by on the railroad tracks which ran in front of our house. And I always wondered what they had in their packs. I thought they might be full of toys. I watched carefully as the man put the sugar in his pack, but I could see no sign at all of any toys.

I was still coloring on my Thanksgiving picture. My turkey picture was to be a gift for my grandmother and I had been hurrying to get it done so it could be sent that day.But I kept a close watch on the man and his pack from behind a bouquet of red roses on the kitchen table.

Mother filled the tramp's pack with food and after while, after thanking her over and over, he turned and disappeared into the fog. But as he turned away, I saw what looked like an expression of pain on his face.

I was glad it wasn't me out there in the cold and misty weather, walking down the tracks. I turned back to coloring my picture and decided to put him in the picture. I put in his pack too, but I filled it with brightly colored toys and food. A roast turkey on a platter, a pumpkin pie and some raisin buns with cranberry sauce stuck out of the pack next to the dolls and trains.

Then I had him riding in a big sleigh down the railrod tracks. I put snowflakes all over the sky, and a nice little house with smoke coming out the chimney and the windows glowing warmly. A little girl was in the window of the house. She had curls and a blue hair ribbon just like mine.

Then I drew a lady who looked just like my mother standing at the door of the little house. She was wearing an apron, and smiling, and holding out a bouquet of red roses to the man in the sleigh.

The man in the sleigh had a look of pain on his face, and I decided to put a crown on his head because he had ruined his hat twisting it nervously with his hands .

When I finished the drawing, Mother put it in the envelope with her letter to Grandmother to be mailed, but I kept seeing the man with the pack of toys and food, riding in a sleigh down the railroad tracks, with a beautiful crown on his head.

LIVERMORE — The tiny tots of this city met with parents and supervisors at more than a dozen locations to prepare a hearty Thanksgiving feast for two hundred.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

One very refreshing thing about the expert of 1930 is that he was willing to discuss his own bad results.

Today's hand is taken from an article on slam bidding by Waldemar von Zedtwitz. At that time Waldy was one of the five or six best players in the world. He made many real contributions to contract bidding. Today he is probably the best player in the over-80 class.

Waldy sat North and opened one heart. In those days if you had two biddable four-card suits, you opened the higher one automatically.

At this point West, who had been sitting back waiting to see what would happen, stuck in a six-spade bid.

Waldy's comment was: "Believing the penalty would be insufficient to offset our slam, I bid six notrump. My bid had the opposite effect from the one desired as my partner bid seven clubs. West did not double, but did lead and cash his ace of hearts."

The interesting feature of Waldy's comment is that he never brought out what a fine decision he had made. Lesser players would have doubled six spades. Waldy decided that 12 tricks were there for him, but not 13 for his partner. In any case, we believe that even if he had doubled, his partner would have bid that same unfortunate seven clubs.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know what the correct rebid is with: ♠ A Q x ♥ 9 x x x ♦ A J 9 ♣ A Q x.

You open one notrump and partner responds with a Stayman two-club bid.

The Stayman two-club response is artificial and asks you to show a four-card major if you have one so he really should bid two hearts, but if he wants to bid two diamonds we have no real criticism. His partner will do the criticizing if two hearts would have worked better.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

East Bay Football Poll

Sad end for 'Poke, Mat squads

Livermore and Granada both dropped places in the East Bay Prepwriter's football poll released yesterday.

The 'Pokes, finishing the year at 7-4, dropped from 11th to 15th, while the Mats, 8-3, finished in a tie for 10th with Pittsburg.

Washington, who defeated Livermore 48-20 in the North Coast Section 4-A Southern championship game, moved from 14th to 9th, while Pinole Valley, victors over Granada by a 42-13 count, claimed second spot, including three first place votes.

Number one College Park, 9-1, meets 14th-ranked Mt. Diablo, 6-3-1, on Thanksgiving in the Turkey Bowl at Diablo Valley College.

In the NCS 2-A playoffs, 3rd-ranked Piedmont, 10-0, tangles with red-hot Salesian, 8-2, in the championship matchup at Pacific High in San Leandro. The Highlanders reached the finals by whipping 13th-ranked Sunset, 14-7, while the Chieftains ripped 4th-ranked Campolindo, 30-20. Salesian, despite its big win, remained seventh in the poll.

San Ramon was the only other EBAL team gaining recognition, landing an honorable mention.

The two Livermore squads, despite their embarrasing defeats, found ways of looking on the better side of things after their games Friday night.

On the positive side for the Mats, who exchanged cheerful self - depreciating wisecracks with their conquerors as they waited for their respective buses afterwards, it was not the kind of loss where every little mistake haunts one for weeks — they just got beat.

"We're glad it's finally over," Couch said of his team's 8-3 season.

Pinole Valley scored four touchdowns in the second quarter, including two in the final minutes, to bury the Mats.

Livermore ran into a similar situation of first - half point saturation by their opponents to ease the pain of the loss. They, too, simply got beat.

The 'Pokes, after falling behind 28-0 in the first quarter, put together a well - executed second half and actually had more first downs than did Washington, 9-7.

Les Jacobs' passing on the flea-flicker accounted for 49 of Livermore's 125 total yards. He hit Bob Tarte with a TD strike in the final quarter for 33 yards, cutting the Huskies' lead to 35-20.

Jacob and Tarte had earlier hooked up for a 16-yard gain.

Pat Powles scored two TD's, both on one-yard runs.

Accepting the defeat with grace, Livermore coach Ron Berg offered, "I told the team at halftime to just come back and give it a good shot."

"I'm still proud of our team, the way they came back like they did. That's all we wanted from them."

Sports in brief

Aubuchon in PH race win

What does a teen-age girl do after getting out of a swimming pool? Go for a run, if the evidence coming out of Livermore can be trusted.

First, Granada High School's Arlene Daley wins the East Bay Athletic League cross - country title and passes up a regional meet for the EBAL swim meet.

And now, Livermore High's Michelle Aubuchon, who placed in a pair of events at the EBAL swim championships and has made a name for herself in AAU swimming with the NorCal Aquatics and the Livermore Aquacowboys, has joined in the fun.

Aubuchon clocked an 11:51 over two miles to capture the girls 16-17 division of the Junior Olympic Cross - Country race at Pleasant Hill High School a week ago. The win enabled her to move on to the Northern California JO championships.

In the boys 14-15 division, Granada's Dennis McDonald was handed a seven - second loss by Kelly King of St. Joseph's. McDonald was timed in a respectable 10:23 for the two-mile tour.

Damian Stocking of St. Michael's (Livermore) took third in the boys 8-9 division, cruising to a 6:02 finish after the mile-long race. Montair of Danville's Robert Latting won the division with a 5:50.

Marina clippers defeat Wolves

SAN LEANDRO — Bringing back memories of past seasons, San Ramon High's soccer team dropped its first and last pre-season match to Marina, 2-1, here Monday.

With the loss, the Wolves take a 0-1-1 record into their opening East Bay Athletic League encounter with California High December 30.

Or, should it be the no-offense Wolves.

San Ramon, spending most of the match on defense, never seemed to mount any type of offense at all. They couldn't, because they were never in any position to score.

The Wolves' only goal came from junior Dan Chevez. Chevez, practically SR's entire offense, scored his third goal to even the game up.

Playing in the striker position, Chevez pushed the equalizer through at nine minutes into the second half. It came, ironically, on their initial shot on goal of the second half. On a fast break, Chevez drew out Marina goalie Tyrone Thomas, before scoring from ten yards.

Marina, meanwhile, a school whose backyard overlooks San Leandro's mud flats, wasn't that impressive offensively, nevertheless scored when it had to.

Fifteen minutes into the first half, Bob Glass centered to Allen Anderson, who scored from ten yards.

The deciding goal came moments after San Ramon had tied it. Bruce Lilly drew backup goal tender Dennis Darrin away before pushing it across. — by Marty James

Polite Diane visits Chinese commune

NOTE: After a one-day absence, the Times picks up its serialization of Diane Dunbar's journal of her trip to the People's Republic of China with the United States' gymnastics team.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 1

Today, we went to a commune.

They started building it in 1959 and there were 56 blocks of houses, now there are more than 200 blocks in the commune.

Most of the homes have running water, electricity and some have bathtubs. There are 26,000 people and 5,000 families. In excess of 7000 children attend school, including 800 in kindergarten and nursery school.

After we talked to the villagers for awhile, we went to visit the kindergarten and nursery school. The kids were so cute.

They came up to us and held our hands and led us upstairs where they sang and danced to organ music for us. These kids were from five to seven years old.

Then we went to see the two and one-half year olds. They also sang and did a dance. They all looked pretty smart and we even saw some Chinese twins (two and one-half years old). They were introduced to Jean and Jay.

Then we went into some of the people's homes and talked with them. In the first home, they had us sit down and they offered us tea and cigarettes.

Everyone in China smokes and it was considered impolite not to take the cigarette, so we had to smoke it.

Kolleen and I were cracking up. I took about two hits and sat it down on the ash tray to let it burn out. I don't think Rick Appleman liked it too well either — he was holding it, but not smoking it.

Next, we went into a doctor's home. Both the wife and husband were doctors. They offered us tea and cigarettes, too, but this time we got out of the cigarette by saying we just smoked one in the other home.

Doctors here don't get paid any more than a sweeper, everyone is paid about the same. After that, we came back to the hotel, ate lunch and went shopping.

The people were having some kind of demonstation supporting the new Chairman, Hua. There were thousands of people marching down the street and some floats with drums and music playing.

People kept on coming for about an hour and one-half. We had to leave for the gym at 5:15 and it was still going on, so we had to drive through all the people.

There are demonstrations like this all the time. The exhibtion was pretty fun, but I was really tired. I thought I only had to do vault and bars, but when we were marching out for FX, Kim got so sick I had to take her place.

I was cold from sitting and had two minutes to warm up. I made it through and the people laughed again.

Kathy didn't do anything, because in Peking she hyper-extended her knee and it was hurting her.

Raiders (yawn) win AFC title

Wrapping up a West Division crown in the National Football League is no big deal for the Oakland Raiders. They've been there before, nine times out of the last 10 years if you're interested in figures.

Still missing, however, is that championship NFL ring that comes with victory in the Super Bowl.

Which probably accounts for why there was no champagne bottle popping or loud cheers in the visiting team's dressing room Sunday after the Oakland Raiders defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 26-7, at Veterans Stadium in the East.

Veteran guard and co-captain Gene Upshaw took victory in stride along with other teammates. "It was just another win for us. There's nothing to celebrate because we expect to win the division," Upshaw said matter-of-factly.

"What's important is coming up," he added. "I think getting whipped by New England early in the season was the best thing that could have happened to the Raiders. We learned then what we had to do."

Coach John Madden wasn't quite that cold, telling newsmen, "We are happy today for two reasons: First, we won our division again, and second, we can look forward to finishing our regular season at home."

Madden stressed, "We play to win every game because it's important to gain that home field advantage for obvious reasons."

Probably the happiest of the Raiders was fullback Mark Van Eeghen, who carried the ball 21 times for 133 yards and a touchdown, his first 100-yard game as a professional.

"You bet it was some kind of a thrill to say the least," the big back from Colgate said after it was over. "Jack Tatum, who is my unofficial stat keeper, told me I had 80 yards early in the third quarter and this gave me the incentive to go for the 100. Actually, Jack, who helps me out in practice, told me before the game that I was going to get 125 yards and it's nice that he had that kind of confidence in me."

Van Eeghen credited the offensive line with "opening some fantastic holes for me and Clarence Davis was blocking for me like a third guard."

The 133 yards increased Van Eeghen's season total to 740 and gives him a good shot at becoming Oakland's first 1,000 yard rusher since Marv Hubbard, the man he replaced as a starter, rolled up 1100-plus back in 1973.

Linebacker Ted Hendricks expressed himself as "delighted" over blocking two punts in one game for the first time. "We should have had seven points on the first one instead of a safety, but I was lucky to block the second one because there was that bad snap from center."

Kicking specialist Errol Mann explained his two misses thusly: "On my first attempt from 52 yards, I hit the ball good and straight. But the wind took it right and it hit the upright. On the second one from 41 yards, David Humm, my holder, had trouble handling the ball because it was loaded with stickum."

Running back Clarence Davis took exception at one sports writer who has been critical of the Raider running game this season. "I've been saying all along that it's a matter of time and timing. Getting to know each other's style of play is the key to the improvement Mark and I are showing. We haven't got it all together, but we're getting there."

Tackle John Vella called it "a very interesting game for me personally because Blenda Gay who was in camp with us was on the other side of me. He and I had some real head-knockers in camp and I didn't know what to expect this time. But to Blenda's credit, he just played hard football."

Quarterback Kenny Stabler, who completed 14 of 18 passes for 133 yards and a touchdown to Fred Biletnikoff, was pleased with the running game. "The Eagles cut us off on the deep passing, so we took what they gave us on the run."

Christmas comes early for 49er fans again

Go ahead and make your Christmas plans if you're a member of the San Francisco 49ers Faithful.

You won't have to worry about spending any time during the Yuletide season at Candlestick Park.

The 49er offense made it 99 per cent certain there will be no playoffs for SF this season in a 23-3 loss to the hated Los Angeles Rams Sunday before a sell-out crowd.

That left Chuck Knox' Southlanders with a 7-3-1 record and San Francisco at 6-5 with three games to go. The Niners aren't dead but they are barely breathing.

And guess who is coming to Candlestick Monday night? The mighty Minnesota Vikings.

What's even more disheartening for 49ers rooters is the fact Cedrick Hardman, the splendid defensive end, is through for the season as a result of a broken leg suffered in the Ram disaster.

San Francisco fans were hoping the 49ers could snap a three-game losing skid by beating the Rams a second time this year.

But LA instead ran its series edge to 33-19-2.

On the way up to the press box before game time, the elevator operator quipped, "I'm afraid this thing may go into overtime."

His reference was to the fact neither the Rams nor the Niners had looked particularly exciting the past fortnight.

After the first period the EO was absolutely correct as San Francisco managed but two first downs and the Rams one.

However, Jim Plunkett and Co. saw to it that Los Angeles soon got on the scoreboard as the 49er quarterback threw an interception to LA's Jim Youngblood. Youngblood looked like the primary receiver, even though he wears a LA uniform.

On the very next play, Rhodes Scholar Pat Haden lofted a 49-yard TD toss to Ron Jessie behind Mel Phillips in the end zone.

And the Niners had a chance to go ahead before halftime when punt returner Jim Bertelsen was guilty of a muff at his own 3. Three running plays and San Francisco wound up at the LA 1 and had to settle for three points.

You can't fault Hardman and his defensive buddies. They came up with five quarterback sacks bringing the 49er season total to 49 and establishing a new team mark.

Jessie confessed, "The TD throw to me was a result of a busted play. Bob Klein was supposed to be Haden's target. But I got behind Phillips."

Coach Monte Clark of SF observed, "We went into the locker room at halftime, trailing by 6-3 and thought we had a good chance to win. We did note we had only one running play, a gain of four yards, to put up on the blackboard as far as a ground accomplishment. Plunkett wasn't having a good day in passing either, but you can't blame one player for all our trouble. Some of his passes weren't thrown that badly."

When the final totals were in, LA showed 146 yards on offense and the 49ers, a mere 88. Plunkett was 6 of 18 in passing for 35 yards. Backup qb Marty Domres who entered the scene in the third stanza was 2 for 7 and Scott Bull, the last signal caller, 1 for 3. When the losses were subtracted from the 65-yard passing total it figured out to a 18-plus. And when the ground game can generate but 70 yards you get the picture.

Delvin Williams, the Niners' superb running back who rushed for 194 yards against St. Louis and 180 against Washington, could make but 13 in 9 carries Sunday. That pretty much clarifies the situation.

Four interceptions and two lost fumbles further details Sunday's debacle. It also explains why LA was able to put 17 points on the board in a space of 5:15 in the third quarter.

Monte Jackson, the NFL's top pass interceptor with 10, ran in the final Los Angeles touchdown after pilfering a Plunkett pass at the 41 yard line.

Plunkett admitted, "It was my fault. I have to accept the blame, I shouldn't have thrown over there."

Chuck Knox, LA's head man, wouldn't claim the NFC West title. He suggested, "This was a hard-fought, tough football game. Our defense did it. Our pass rush was great. But we're never comfortable until we sew this thing up."

Haden, the former Southern Cal football star, drew some good-natured ribbing from the press when he tried to gain entry to the 49er locker room after the game.

Evidently the young fellow was still savoring the victory. Had he gained access to the SF dressing quarters, Clark probably wouldn't have let him back out.

Now the Rams anticipate wrapping up the NFC West title. Maybe within the next week.
